FIELD OF THE INVENTION

[002] Our Invention is related to Ayurveda, Homeopathy, Unani, and alternative medicine methods, the proportion of the elements found in 3:7

BACKGROUND OF THE INVENTION

[003] Food is the main source for meeting nutritional demands, however, as modernity advances, certain old practices are being abandoned.

[004] Affluence among the working population, changing lifestyles, and the rising cost of ill care, both in terms of time and money, are some of the dynamics at play today that are encouraging individuals to consider their well-being. Traditional medicine has drawn more attention on a worldwide scale.

[005] Traditional herbal medicine is being monitored and regulated. The oldest still practicing tradition is Ayurveda, the traditional Indian medicine.

[006] India has had some success in marketing its cures through the use of more research and a science-based approach, but more in-depth study and evidence-based practice are still required.

[007] A few factors that have rekindled public interest in complementary and alternative medicines include increased side effects, the absence of effective treatments for many chronic conditions, the high cost of new medications, microbial resistance, and emerging disorders.

[008] Through investigation of the ethnopharmacological claims made by many traditional practices, numerous nutraceutical combinations have made their way onto the global market. This article provides an overview of the Ayurvedic medical system and its use of translational medicine to treat malnutrition and associated diseases.

OBJECTIVES OF THE INVENTION

1) The objective of the invention is to provide an “Ayurveda, Homeopathy, Unani, alternative medicine methods, the proportion of the elements found in 3:7” is a With A New Spirit Of Heading A Bright horizon, It Is appreciated That You Have Created The Record, (THE NATURAL PROPORTION OF LIQUID ELEMENTS IS THE NATURAL MEDICINES If the proportion of natural medicine is not a natural inclusion, then it cannot be a natural medicine. dr. Veer Bahadur Dhuriya Keeping in mind the Ayurveda, Homeopathy, Unani, and alternative medicine methods, the proportion of the elements found in 3:7, not separately, can affect the human body.

- 2) The other objective of the invention is to provide a grant permission to use because this research shows that the earth sky body is divided 3:7 in the whole atmosphere universe so it is obvious that the ratio can benefit our body so Dr. Veer Bahadur Dhuriya's research of 20 years ratio is a natural is the conditions.)
- 3) The other objective of the invention is to provide a We face towards yhe Firmament of India on Well on Inspiration for Human Race by Dint of the Braunt of Your Record. Now With a Load of Enthusiasm Wish You from the Deepest Corcurs of Heants from the Green Field of London Book of Worlds Records.

SUMMARY OF THE INVENTION

[009] the use of alternative medicines is prevalent around the world, with about 60% of people doing so. In affluent nations where access to modern medicines is widespread, these medications are also utilised by rural populations for their primary healthcare. [010] A huge collection of medicinal plants utilised in conventional medical treatments may be found in the Indian subcontinent. While only medicinal plants are utilised to make herbal pharmaceuticals, alternative medicines in traditional systems are made from herbs, minerals, and organic materials.

[011] In India, the use of plants as a source of medicine has a long history and plays a significant role in the country's healthcare system. In India, the traditional Ayurvedic medical system is used by around 70% of the rural population.

[012] The majority of healers and practitioners of traditional systems of medicine make their own formulations and provide them to patients. Approximately 40% of individuals in Western nations use herbal therapy to treat a variety of illnesses.

[013] Due to increased side effects, adverse medication responses, and cost of modern medicines, as well as the attention given to it by governmental organisations and other NGO's made up of members of the general public and researchers, interest in traditional treatments is developing quickly.

DESCRIPTION OF THE INVENTION

[014] Although there is considerable debate over the safety, efficacy, and costeffectiveness of CAM practises, increasing their usage in areas where there is solid evidence for both their safety and efficacy may have positive effects on health, society, and the economy.

[015] A good alternative to permitting unrestricted use of conventional medical therapy may be to enhance the knowledge and resources offered in neighbourhood pharmacies, which serve as the major source of care for many illnesses in rural regions.

[016] Therefore, if CAM is to be expanded effectively and have an influence on population health, a large commitment in time and resources is required. CAM has a significant function in society.

[017] However, additional research is required before CAM therapies for disorders for which they show promise may be widely included into national health systems.

[018] Additionally, a variety of nutraceutical combinations have made their way into the global market thanks to research into the ethno pharmacological claims made by various traditional practises.

[019] the bulk of the diet must consist of health-promoting foods and nutraceutical to be considered really healthy, whereas junk food and foods that promote disease must be avoided. Vegetables, fresh fruits, beans and legumes, raw nuts, seeds, and avocados, starchy vegetables, and whole grains should make up 90% of a person's daily diet.

[020] these foods are high in nutrients and include calories that are accompanied by phytochemicals that promote health. These foods or nutraceutical combine protective elements to create a diet that promotes health and prevents illness.

[021] Intake of foods high in nutrients will offer the best defence against adult heart disease and cancer in addition to infections, asthma, and allergies.
